Educating and Supporting the Affordable Housing Industry

Presenting Key People Skills for Property Management Staffers:

WEBINAR

Developing a Top-Performing Team

Having a top-performing team means making sure that the members of the team are all in. This doesn't mean that everyone is in agreement at all times, but it does mean everyone is committed to doing his/her part in order to achieve a common goal, even at times when their individual opinion may not match the direction of the organization or group.

On Tuesday, July 31, 2018, we will take a close look at skills and capabilities that will help you develop a top-performing team. Topics to be covered will include:

- The difference between work group and team
- Making sure everyone is heard
- House rules for team meetings
- Presenting an opposing opinion
- Gaining support for important decisions

Who should attend?

- Property management staffers
- Corporate or headquarters staff, including regional and district managers; mid- and entry-level managers and supervisors; compliance specialists; HR, accounting and technical staff; etc.
